

Poetry slam life beyond water

Life below water is dying out, but your still discussing about hunger now.

The Fishes are dying don't you know? And this is how:

Climate change is heating the water and the fishes are dead,
and people are still asking for their daily bread.

Why are you still pushing your economic?

When the problem is ecologic.

People are screaming stop this madness,

But you guys still have to be badass.

The water is getting hot,

But you say it's not.

You say every life is sacred,

but you are still hated.

What are you doing, everything is dying

And people are crying.

You know how to stop this mess!

But you don't want to give up your rest.

You throw your rubbish into the sea,

and you laugh while drinking your tea.

Why don't you stop it?

What if...

I know it's hard giving up your comforting life,

But you know this just isn't right!
